I have made some bookmarks with tiny poems just for you! To thank you for visiting, so please print, clip and use!

A simple pot of flowers is a treasure in Alaska, for Alaskans do not care if your blooms are exotic or plain.
If you can withstand the cold nights and days
is all you need to be their friend.

You may think I am only a frog statue,
but this leaf bent to my will,
and the daisies stand quite still,
for my yoga pose to be viewed.

A tiny home for a friend with wings,
birds or fairies or other imagined things.
Bright blue clematis at their front door,
Who'd dare ask for anything more?

Rocks with flower shadows,
tiny flowers tucked in rocks.
Intermingling their delicate structures,
such is the way of rock garden flowers.
